Plan C Amendment 7
Here's the schedule:
The C. will pick you up at 8.30am in a shiny car.
You will then proceed to
The Metropolitan Hotel
19 Old Park Lane
Hyde Park Corner
SW1
Whereupon, at 10.30am, you will meet S., the press officer, to run though any questions you may have. (in the bar) Her mobile is xxxxxxx [illegible]
11.30am, the film [illegible] is booked for the interview in a room somewhere in the hotel. The interviewer's name is N. [illegible]
[illegible] does your recent promotion mean to you?
2. Briefcases: which are most important to you/you are most concerned/angry about? eg. imitation leather, brass corners, uncomfortable handles etc.
3. Does the business community have a special responsibility to speak out on behalf of these issues?
4. How do you think imminent global economic meltdown will change attitudes?
5. Bunkers: how do you expect the public will respond when they discover that there are corporate bunkers complete with anti-personnel weapons under the City?
6. Your own impressions: this was a little vague, and they were open to direction from you, but it was something along the lines of you having freedom of movement within the Canary Wharf development.
CH4 News are very happy you are doing this. This is pre-recorded so you have control about re-doing / cutting xxxxxx you are not comfortable with. I was told that they may not get xxx out in time for this Friday's news but they want to show it when the viewing figures are at their best so it will most likely go out in next Friday's edition. S. seems pretty happy with this.
Also Newsnight were sorry about pulling the piece and pass on their apologies. They decided that they were 'economic issued out' for one week (due to last nights intensive discussions.) But they will be doing something around the show. The BBC has a satelite (satellite?) link up to the office party which they will feed to all the relevant BBC TV & Radio programmes including Newsnight.
I'm off to Brussels tomorrow with P. and E., so C. is in charge. I'm off to bed to dream about oversleeping, missing the plane and turning up at the airport, naked, with a copy of the Radio Times instead of my passport.
Nighty night.
